

ENDURANCE SERIES FOR LABOUR WEEKEND AT TERETONGA PARK

Labour Weekend is shaping to be a big one at Teretonga Park in Invercargill with Round 3 of the Carter's Tyre Service South Island Endurance Series set to be contested at the circuit. Two separate One Hour Races and the traditional Three Hour race will all take place on Sunday 24 October.

Tickets for the event are on sale at Auto Centre, Tweed Street, Invercargill and E Hayes & Sons, Dee Street, Invercargill priced at $15 each with children 14 & under, accompanied by an adult free.

The Endurance Series always features a host of exotic, spectacular and extremely quick saloon cars and this year will be no exception.

Under current restrictions crowds can attend the event but groups not attending together should maintain a distance of 1 metre between each other. Face masks are required upon entering the circuit and when accessing toilet facilities.

Prior to next weekend's racing Round 3 of the Evolution Motorsport ClubSport Championship will take place at the circuit on Saturday 16 October with a motorkhana in the morning followed by Autocross in the afternoon. If you are keen to see what entry level motorsport is about pop out for a look.

In preparation for the season, last weekend saw a large number of first responders and flag marshalls attend a Training Day at Teretonga Park, including a number from the Southland Motorcycle Club in preparation for the new season. Participants enjoyed theory sessions on Health & Safety, Communication and Report Writing while there was also an outdoor practical session with fire extinguishers.

Motorsport NZ CEO Elton Goonan attended the day and thanked those in attendance for turning up to the training day and for their efforts in volunteering at motorsport events.
